ALIMONY FOR MEN? QUESTION ARGUED BY FEMININE MINDS

Women May Soon Be Paying It If Views Of Some Of Leaders Become Popular—"Why Not?" Asks National Organizer.

NOTHING-SENTIMENTAL ABOUT IT—PRACTICAL FOR BOTH SEX

By Josephine Van De Grift
NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Alimony for men!

Women may soon be paying it if the views of some of their leaders become more popular. "Why not?" asks Alta Estes Munger, national organizer and executive secretary of the New York City committee of the National Woman's Party. "There was never anything sentimental about alimony. It was designed merely to keep a divorced person from becoming a charge of state. In the middle ages it was always the woman who was in danger of becoming the charge. But nowadays a woman is self-supporting. And if she divorces a husband who is a parasite, for instance, it behooves her to pay his alimony.

"Physical disability is the only excuse for any person—man or woman—accepting alimony.

"Any woman who is healthy able-bodied and unencumbered with the care of young children, should be ashamed to compel a man to carry her about like a sack of mail."

Not Easy for the Woman

But Mrs. Charles Tiffany, chairman of the Borough of Manhattan League of Women Voters, is not quite as hard on the women.

"It is not possible," she says, "for a woman who has been married a number of years to plunge immediately into business and become self-supporting.

"Frequently she has given the best years of her life to her home. For those years she is entitled to some recompense.

"I would interpret that recompense in terms of alimony."

Both women have assumed of course that the newly-freed benedict cheerfully accepts the post-marital obligations outlined in the concluding instructions of the divorce court judge.

But a sadder view is taken by Eugene A. Johnson, warden, who for nine years has presided over the destinies of the famous Ludlow Street Jail alimony club, where those who would rather stay in jail than pay alimony serve their sentences.

"I've seen them come," says Johnson, "as many as 20 at a time. Sometimes I look at them in pity, but then I say to myself: 'Well, a woman has put them there and she doubtless has a reason for it.

"But I've known women to go out and scrub floors rather than take a cent of alimony. Those women have my respect."

LEDSON RESIGNS POSITION WITH THE DAILY NEWS

Will Be Field Manager For The Ronald System Of Scientific Advertising And Cost Accounting.

ROBERT L. KINCAID OF L. M. U. WILL BE NEW MANAGER

G. L. Ledson, who has been manager of the Middlesboro Daily News since June, has resigned his position to become field manager of the Ronald system of scientific advertising and cost accounting. He will be succeeded by Robert L. Kincaid who has been connected with the Lincoln Memorial University for the past several years.

The Ronald system is being taken up by newspapers in all parts of the United States. Mr. Ledson will continue to make his headquarters in Middlesboro temporarily while he goes over the local territory.

Mr. Ledson says he likes Middlesboro and the people of Middlesboro, and is glad of his associations with this part of Kentucky. He says he has lived in California for three years where the climate is supposed to be ideal but he thinks it has nothing better to offer than the climate of Middlesboro.

He says he sees a big future for Middlesboro and the Daily News.

Mr. Ledson came here last June from Mitchell, S. D. to install the Ronald system for the Daily News. Many of his friends are expressing regrets that he is to go away to another location.

SPEEDWELL MEN ARE HELD FOR SHOOTING

Shot And Severely Injured Will Pierce While He Was Repairing Fence.

Will Pierce of Speedwell was shot and seriously injured near that place Monday. His brother, Nelson Pierce, who is alleged to have fired the shot, John Pierce, also a brother and a man named Peters were bound over to court in the preliminary hearing which took place before Magistrate Grover Smith yesterday. The latter two were held for alleged complicity in the shooting.

The cause of the trouble is not known. According to reports received from Speedwell, Will Pierce was repairing a fence when the three men came up and began shooting. One rifle bullet struck him under the right shoulder blade and came out at his breast. Nelson Pierce is said to have used a high-power army rifle, the other two having fired a shot-gun and a pistol.

The condition of Will Pierce is reported very serious.

BOYD FORD AGAIN SEC. OF KY-TENN. KIWANIS DISTRICT

Boyd Ford of Knoxville, has been reappointed secretary for the Tennessee-Kentucky Kiwanis district. The appointment was announced by District Governor Chas. C. Gilbert while he was in the city. Mr. Gilbert conferred with Mr. Ford while here on plans for the district. These include conferences during January and February at the center of the territory for which there are lieutenant-governors; looking towns and cities in which there are Kiwanis clubs with better roads; co-operating with the farmer and taking a greater interest in his welfare.

Mr. Gilbert has prepared a map of the Tennessee-Kentucky district which shows the territory of each lieutenant-governor. These Lieutenant-Governors will be asked to visit every Kiwanis club in their section and keep in touch with the work. They will also make reports to Mr. Gilbert and in that way he will know just what is being accomplished throughout the district and what are the needs.

OPEN LETTER TO THE READERS AND PATRONS THE DAILY NEWS

I take this opportunity to say farewell to the good people of Middlesboro and district, and at the same time to give you some information as to the progress of The Daily News during my management.

In reviewing the field from far off South Dakota, it seemed to me an admirable location for a daily newspaper. Representing the Ronald System of Scientific Advertising and Cost Accounting, a patented system for operating newspapers, I came to the Daily News with the purpose of building up the newspaper and making it a paying proposition. While I have not succeeded to any great extent on the latter, I feel that much has been accomplished in the former, with the loyal co-operation of the force, both office and mechanical department. The circulation of the Daily News has been more than doubled. The new circulation going principally into the out-of-town districts: Pineville, Harlan, Benham, Lynch and the farming districts of Virginia and Tennessee. The news service has been greatly increased, both foreign and local, the makeup of the paper, the number of features carried, the attractiveness and number of advertisements have all been greatly increased and improved, all tending to give a larger service, both to reader and advertiser. Many subscribers to out-of-town dailies have discontinued them and are taking the home town daily feeling that that "fills the bill" completely. All this is as it should be, because a town generally is just as big as its daily newspaper. The Daily News should have the loyal support of all Middlesboro people, for there is nothing that will make a "Bigger Middlesboro," quicker than a bigger Daily News.

I appreciate the co-operation of and my associations with the Middlesboro merchants, who, I am sure, will give every assistance to the new manager Mr. Kincaid. I have enjoyed the scenery, the people and the climate of this part of the country to the fullest extent.

Yours very truly,
G. PRINCE LEDSON,
Field Manager, Ronald System of Scientific Advertising and Cost Accounting.

PSYCHOLOGY WILL TAKE PLACE OF THE THIRD DEGREE

Chicago Crime Hunters Are Trying Practical Method Breaking Down Resistance Of Conscious Mind.

METHOD IS WRINGING CONFESSIONS FROM GUILTY

By Roy Gibbons, NEA Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—Chicago police are substituting for the crude brutalities of "the third degree" the new horrors of psychology.

Through practical application of psychological principals, particularly through breaking down resistance of the conscious mind and liberating the unconscious mind, they are wringing confessions from criminals.

The new system is having its most spectacular test in the case of Albert Foster, arrested on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the mysterious disappearance of his former fiancée, Mrs. Kate Mitchell Trostell.

Quizzed 98 Hours.

For 98 hours—without sleep or let-up—Detective Chief Michael Hughes and his assistants put Foster through the psychological third degree.

There were no threats of physical violence, no shouting and denunciation, no shooting of firearms.

"We proceeded on the theory," said Hughes, "that in every human being there is a spark of decency and if you can free that spark, the flame of truth is bound to leap outward."

At the end of 98 hours of psychological sweating, Hughes had obtained from Foster a statement that Mrs. Trostell and he had quarreled, she was taken sick and she had jumped into the drainage canal.

Had it not been for this statement, the police would have had to free Foster, for the body of Mrs. Trostell has not yet been found.

Now the inquisition is proceeding with the purpose of wringing from Foster the truth about some stains found on his coat and on the running board of his automobile. These stains were analyzed by an official chemist, who said they were human blood.

Foster's inquisitors first tried to

JUDGE J. L. MANRING REMEMBERS HOSPITAL SICK CHRISTMAS DAY

Sympathy for the unfortunates who were compelled to pass Christmas within the hospital walls was eloquently expressed in the language of flowers by J. L. Manring, who supplied each invalid at the Brosemer-Brummett hospital with a bouquet Christmas day. Nearly a score there were of those whose condition made it imperative that they spend the glorious day indoors. The floral offerings were accepted with great gratitude to the donor who caused the ray of sunshine to beam brightly.

Roses and carnations, 12 boxes of them, tastefully arranged were evidence of generosity, "peace and goodwill" of Mr. Manring. They were distributed to the patients who had them placed in water in vases that their fragrance might linger long, mute but eloquence of the thoughtfulness of the giver.

Kills Father-In-Law

By Associated Press.

BRODHEAD, Dec. 30.—Robert Payne, 55, railroad employer, was shot six times and killed here yesterday by his son-in-law, James Wallin, 35, barber, at the latter's home. The slayer claimed self defense in which his wife corroborated him. Said Payne threatened both with a pistol.

Build up before his mind's eye the image of the crime which he was suspected. They held before him time after time a picture of Mrs. Trostell. Cries as many as 30 men surrounded him and pined him with questions.

"Can't Stick to Lie."

"All criminals lie," said Hughes. "But rare is the man who can stick to a lie. We find a liar will tell a different version of the same story to almost everyone. So we lead a suspect into telling lies, then we check him up, and finally in his mental confusion, the truth will out.

"This, in effect, is what has happened in Foster's case."

Foster's confession came in the 98th hour when, by pre-arrangement, Mrs. Trostell's daughter entered the room and pleaded hysterically with him to tell her where her mother was. The spark of decency, according to police psychologists, burst into the flame of truth. And then Foster was led away for a few hours rest, after which the inquisition was renewed.

Miss Jackson Tells of Christmas At The Grace Nettleton Home

Dec. 29, 1922.

Dear Mother:
I know there is a sure enough Santa Claus because I saw him last night!

Thus wrote a little girl, after the visit of Santa Claus, to the Grace Nettleton Home, on Christmas eve. He came accompanied by Dr. Gray and his family, Mrs. J. Callison and little daughter, Mrs. Sprague and a few other Middlesboro friends.

How he arrived was a puzzle to the children, but that he did, there was no doubt.

After a most hilarious gift-giving time, when every one in the Home was generously remembered, the good Old Saint disappeared, leaving a very happy and excited family at the home.

It seems as though all the good people of Middlesboro conspired to give the Grace Nettleton Home a bountiful Christmas.

Special Thanks.

The Woman's club and the Kiwanis conducted a very successful drive, though the results of which, have not yet been reported, but enough, we know, to carry us safely through the school year. Special thanks are due the Philanthropy group of the Woman's club, Mrs. Helburn chairman, and the committee from the Kiwanians, Maj. Helburn, Dr. Robertson and Mr. Bradner, who personally took part in the drive.

Individual Gifts.

From the Baracca class of the First Baptist church, Mr. Wilson president, came $100 in cash and supplies valued at $100.00. The supplies brought over on Christmas day by Mr. Allison, Mr. Titter and Mr. Green, Representatives of the Women's Missionary Union of the Baptist church, came over with 47 very attractive Christmas bags named for each girl. From the Elks a check for $125; from Lone Mountain Milling company a load of flour and meal. Other individual gifts of money and supplies, fruit, candy and toys, made the Christmas season a time of rejoicing at the Home. The clouds hung low over the Home before Thanksgiving, but now the prospects for a successful year are bright.

We must not forget the earlier donations and supplies from the Elks and Kiwanians amounting to $150, besides numerous individual gifts. The Thanksgiving offering from the Presbyterian church, $155.28, with later gifts bringing it up to $170, from St. Mary's Episcopal church, $12.50, J. C. Richardson $100; J. R. Sampson, $50 and many others.

The only way we can show our appreciation for the generous and hearty co-operation of our friends, is to make the Home as efficient as possible, and a safe and happy place for the girls committed to our care.

(Signed)
MISS ELIZABETH JACKSON,
Superintendent.

A THOUGHT

See thy way in the valley; know what thou hast done. — Jeremiah 2:23.

We turn and look upon the valley of the past year. There below are the spots stained by our evil and our fear. But as we look a glow of sunlight breaks upon the past and in the sunshine is a soft rain, falling from heaven. It washes away the stain, and from the purity of the upper sky a voice seems to descend and enter our gathered hearts. "My child, go forward, abiding in faith, hope and love, for I, I am with you always." — Stopford Brooke.

THE NEED OF STATE PARK SYSTEMS

Increasing interest in the subject of state parks, designed to supplement the somewhat more pretentious national parks in the United States, indicates a wholesome appreciation of the need of available recreation places removed from the cities and free from that commercialism which is becoming more and more persistent and offensive. It has been proposed, and the plan does not appear to be an extravagant one, that park systems should be so devised that any person traveling by automobile, might be able to camp in a national or state park every night, and that state parks be provided within easy access of everybody. Modern methods of transportation have made such a plan feasible. The tendency on the part of the public to avail itself of the opportunities already offered encourages a comprehensive movement to extend and increase available state park areas.

In some of the states there has been worked out and established a definite and ambitious park system. Massachusetts, New York, Ohio, Illinois, and some of the older states of the middle west already have many splendid natural parks, in some cases combined in connected systems reached by auto highways, trolley lines or railway lines.

It is encouraging also to note the fact that the precautions are urged against commercialism and profiteering in the parks and playgrounds. All supplies, it is proposed, shall be furnished under the direction of the park commissioners, and not through the medium of concessionaires. The need is that these open places be made and kept popular. They should be as easy of access as one's back yard, and as free from disagreeable influences as the home. There is room for many such parks in America.

YOUR FUTURE

What does the distant future hold in store for you? It depends on the seed you are sowing today. Above you see a symbolic pen-picture by Artist Satterfield. A small boy, dashing about breathlessly, has paused before a giant, gnarled old oak. The oak awes him. He is saying to himself: "Here's something I can't pull up by the roots or break off, as I can a weed or a small tree."

Few grown men could start chopping down this old oak without apprehensive groans. Back of all this is food for philosophical thought, also a semi-clairvoyant message for your future.

For thousands of years, wise men have contemplated and respected the oak tree as symbolic of human deeds.

The oak proves that mighty things can come from the humblest start. "Great oaks from little acorns grow." Other trees grow faster. But they die off, generation after generation, while the oak lives on. Its growth is slow, but substantial and steadily increasing—like men building for a future with foundations to make it endure.

Think of the old oak, when discomfited by slow progress. Great human careers, like the oak and Rome, are not built in a day.

SNOW IN THE CITY

♦ ♦ ♦ ♦ By Berton Braley ♦ ♦ ♦ ♦

The beautiful snow! The beautiful snow!

It falls on the roofs and the pavements below. In flakes that come floating down gently and slow.

The beautiful snow! It's not beautiful long.

When trampled by feet of the hurrying throng.

It isn't a subject for music or song.

For even as downward it airily flutters,

It mucks up the streets and it chokes up the gutters.

And "Darn all this snow!" the pedestrians mutters.

The tempers of drivers it woefully wrecks,

It slides off the roofs down the passers-by's necks.

It knows no distinction of age or of sex.

It melts, and clear over the cabstands it washes,

It overflows gutters and soaks through galoshes,

On furs and on gowns of the women it splashes.

The beautiful snow! On the city it steals,

It causes the skidding of automobiles.

And makes you get out and put chains on the wheels.

It swiftly grows dirty and sloppy to view,

It harbors bacilli of colds and the flu,

Fill half of the populace sneezes, "A-choo!"

The beautiful snow! In the country it's so,

But here in the city we greet it with woe.

The far, far from beautiful, "Beautiful snow!"

CITIZENS FORM ANTI-UGLY ASSN

A Protective Organization To Make City Cleaner And More Beautiful.

KANSAS CITY, DEC. 29.—What is expected to become a nationwide movement to make cities cleaner and more beautiful has its seed here in the organization of the Citizens Anti-Ugly Protective Association.

This organization, the first of its kind to be incorporated, is financed by seven public spirited citizens. It aims to rid the city of all defacements on sidewalks, highways, alleys and on buildings.

Already it has accomplished its first objective—removal of tattered placards and old advertising matter from walls and buildings.

The movement grew out of the effort of Joseph Meinrath, retired business man, who spent several thousands of his own in an effort to beautify the city.

Meinrath's appeals to the public through newspaper articles, paid newspaper advertising and other publicity channels brought him six wealthy aids and lined up public sympathy on the side of the movement.

Then Meinrath and his six aids incorporated their organization.

The first thing they did was to dig posters on poles. They prevailed on the mayor and police commissioner to enforce the ordinance.

Poles, walls and buildings were covered with posters, some of them were years old. Police and was enlisted to tear all of them down.

"We've accomplished our first aim," says Meinrath.

"Now we hope to get through the up and old ordinance against placing council ordinances which will rid the boulevards of obnoxious signboards and residence streets of filling stations.

"What's the use of having fine boulevards and residence districts and statutory if they are not protected?" The word UGLIES well describes the evils we are fighting. And anti-uglies is a good nickname for the seven of us who're leading this war."

Every bald man likes to say to his wife that she did it, which is seldom true.

They are kicking about the shells a famous dancer wears, claiming the young lady shell shocks the public.

What good is your past if you don't use it for the future?

Adventures of The Twins

By Olive Roberts Barton

Phil Frog sat on the bank of Ripple Creek, coughing hoarsely. "Ker-chug! A hunk Ker-chug! A hunk!" It sounded as though Phil should have some of his strings tightened like a fiddle that needs tuning up.

Nancy and Nick and Dusty Coat the sandman fairy, appeared around a rock just then and came upon poor Phil, sitting there and looking yellow and wrinkled and faded, like a green apple that has fallen off the tree before it had a chance to get ripe, and began to wither up.

"Ker-chug! A hunk—" began Phil, when suddenly he spied his visitors. He stopped and blinked his eyes sleepily, and grunted an empty sort of smile.

"Hello, Phil!" cried Nick, running up and dropping beside him. "Aren't you pretty cold?"

"Pretty!" nodded Phil.

"Then why don't you go where it's warm?" said Nancy. "It's starting to snow and if North Wind keeps on blowing, Ripple Creek will soon be frozen hard."

"I know," nodded Phil. "I don't mind the cold much, but I can't get anything to eat. The flies and mosquitoes are all gone, and I haven't anything to do but cough."

Dusty Coat lifted his bag of magic dust from his shoulder and set it on the ground.

"Well, well, well!" he said, pulling open the string. "I think I came just in time. You need a tonic, Philip and I have the very thing! Can you take a powder?"

"I can if it's insect powder," said Phil, making a weak little joke.

"All right then, lick this up," said

ARBUCKLE'S GLOOM MAY BLOCK COMEBACK

By Jack Jungmeyer, NEA Staff Correspondent.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 30.—With everything he held dear in his old life gone, a deep gloom has settled down on Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle, a gloom which has not entirely been dissipated by the pardon granted Arbuckle by Will H. Hays, movie mentor, permitting him to act again in pictures.

Arbuckle's palatial home is gone. Gone, too, is the respondent automobile that used to "knock the eyes" out of Hollywood.

Gone are the good fellows who ate his bread in his days of affluence. Gone to New York is his wife, Minta Durfee, who sat at his side during the trial that followed the Virginia Rappe tragedy and preceded Arbuckle's being barred from the movies.

My guess is that it's going to be hard for Fatty Arbuckle to cavort and waddle and do the old clownish stuff with any semblance of spontaneity.

I formed that opinion after a visit and talk with the former comedian.

Arbuckle has gained a little weight during his enforced idleness. His jaws sag lower. The old smile and wrinkles have disappeared.

The chief obstacle to his comeback is the dumps into which he has plunged.

Since his banishment from the films Arbuckle has been in close retirement. He and his dog retreated to a little obscure cabin in Hollywood.

"I just want to work, and to make people laugh—and to eat," he says.

Lack of Swim

Rank Means Nothing To These Stars

Seated—Adam Smith, Dan Hanley, Bill Wright, Francis Griswold.

By NEA Service.

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 30.—Central high school here has no swimming tank.

But a little thing like that doesn't stop the school from winning the national interscholastic swimming championship fight regularly.

Central high swimmers have not lost a dual meet in eight years. Their only defeat in all of that time was at the hands of a non-high school team at the University of Pennsylvania tank meet last year. Then, they lost by but 1 1/2 points, but they evened matters by cleaning up at Columbia University and winning the finals of the season at Princeton.

The Central high holds the national interscholastic records in the 100 and 200-yard relays. Adam Smith holds the 220, 440, 500 and 880 marks and is credited with giving Johnny Weismuller the tightest race of his career at the Put-in-Bay meet. Bill Wright, now at Columbia, holds the 50 and 100 marks for interscholastic swimmers.

J. C. Ainsworth, physical director of the Erie Y. M. C. A., and developer of many swimmers, became involved with the idea of a swimming team for the high school. There being no pool, he arranged for the students to use the Y tank, and donated his services as coach. The result of this is the fact that Erie students are called as headliners wherever they appear, and the colleges whose meets they attend make special efforts to have them present.

Erie's business men have taken great interest in the work. They raised a fund to finance the traveling of the students. This year, the Erie youths participate in tank events at Columbia, College of the City of New York and Yale.

Corsages.

Elaborate corsage bouquets are seen in the shops and offer an easy way to furnish a gown that is on plain, good lines. A rose of emerald-green velvet, the petals of which are outlined with brown fur, is one of the most unique offerings.

WOMANLY TROUBLES

'Twas Hard for Her to Stop Work, But This Texas Lady Says She Had to Go to Bed.— Helped by Cardui.

Salado, Texas.—"I suffered a great deal with womanly troubles," says Miss Ira Lillian Hart, of Route 1, this place. "I would, for a day or two, feel drowsy, stupid and lifeless, didn't feel like doing my work. "I would suffer pains in my sides and back, and very severe headaches. "I am the housekeeper, and it was very hard for me to stop, but I would get in such a misery I would have to go to bed. I heard of Cardui, and that it was good for this suffering. The very first bottle I took seemed to help me. I did not suffer near so much, so I sent for the second. It did so much good for me, I can't say enough for Cardui, for it certainly was a friend in need."

Women who feel the need of something to help relieve, or prevent, such troubles, should profit by the experience of thousands of other women, and try this mild, harmless tonic.

Behind the Dawn

(Baltimore Sun)
The winter's sea's a gray sea,
And the gray dawn comes with chill—
Behind the gray dawn destiny
And the breath of flaming will;
The breath of man's desire,
That is like a wind to'n free,
And like a sheet of the pillar fire
Of the rose light on the sea.

Behind the dawn in the shadow
Crouched, ready forth to leap,
The purpose of the unplanned day
That pricks the reins of sleep;
And down the void with grinding
Of whisper of wind and rain
That which behind the dawn crouches
Climbs up the sky again.

To listening ears of ages
And the wondering hearts of earth—
To prophets and to sages
To poets and men of mirth—
It murmurs with repetitions
Of free things or designed.
To muster the forces of the fates
Where nations stand aligned.

And these, and their starry people
Who hear and have vision found,
Wake and talk fire and assemble
As if at a trumpet's sound—
Sound of a trumpet blowing
Out of the deeps and the heights
To those who with sunrise glowing
Come from the dreamful nights.

Behind the dawn that whispers,
That spell of the spirit of all—
Gray dawn upon the grayer sea,
And man at the outer wall;
Yea, at the great wall beating,
And wanting to slay or love
As a blind child blindly obeying
Nor asking the why thereof!

Good Manners.

In the selection of stationery as in everything else relating to social usage, what is fantastic or over-conspicuous is poor form.

For instance, such a combination as white ink on deep purple paper, while it would attract attention by its eccentricity, would also give an impression of bad taste on the writer's part. The complete text of a formal note should appear on the first page only.

Evolution of The Sweater

Consider the evolution of the sweater!

Once an ugly, ungainly, heavy thing worn only for athletics, today it's one of the most attractive articles of feminine apparel.

Of thin wool or silk, knitted into lace or brock patterns, or with an open-work stripe or check, it takes the place of a blouse, most effectively worn with a white wool or silk skirt.

Gives Costume Effect

Often a fringed skirt is added and the whole is worn over a slip of the same color, giving the effect of an entire costume.

A chic decoration consists of initials or a monogram on sleeve, front or pocket. Such decorations usually are done in white or tan on dark sweaters and in vivid colors on light ones.

Some models are braided, even beaded, or appliqued in splashy colors. The entire knitted costume is seen everywhere—a one-piece affair or a separate skirt and slipover blouse.

Knitted hats, scarfs and capes accompany many costumes.

Hats, Scarfs, Capes.

The sweater is not restricted in its usefulness, but, worn with a skirt of the same color, supplies a costume which the business as well as the society girl loves to wear.

Now is the time for every woman who knows how to knit to get out her yarn and needles and anticipate her summer needs.

DEPENDENT WOMAN IS CALLED LIFES PITIFUL THING

Independent Woman, However, Must Be Careful She Does Not Seize Away Men Of Fine Type By Her Warning Power.

FALSE VALUATION IS PUT ON TRUTH BY WOMEN

By Marian Hale

"The only type of independent woman who does not have to pay," says Thyrin Sumner Winslow, the popular short story writer, "is the one who realizes her own value."

"The independent woman is just as feminine as the clinging vine type, but because of the short period that she has been in vogue, she feels her oats."

"She thinks she is so smart, because she can make a little money, that she flouts her independence and seizes away the finer type of man. This is one of the big payments she makes— inability to attract the right man."

"Until woman can make herself man's equal, her wiles and her laziness, she will have to continue to pay. But the independent woman until she has calmed herself a bit, will have to settle for even more than her share."

"However, the most pitiful thing in life is a dependent woman. Her husband's proposal of marriage is the triumph of her life. Why? Because it is the one thing that results from her initiative. Does she pay? Of course. It is a deferred payment, but it comes. It comes with the children who are not wanted—children practically forced upon her. Long years of stupid, uninteresting payment!"

"Marriage is just as much a form of slavery today as it ever has been."

"I would like to see a law passed prohibiting women from marrying and having children who could not prove her ability to support them by her own efforts or by an independent income."

"However, I do not believe woman should support the children. It is the man's duty."

Why Deny Your Age?

"Another thing for which women pay—and for which they are responsible—is the false valuation they put on youth."

"Can you imagine a man of 28 announcing that he is only 21?"

"In my opinion the male today is superior to the female."

"Men are the dominant sex, and should dominate in many things, because of the very fact of their sex."

"But they want to dominate too much."

"The advent of the independent woman has put a flea in man's ear, so to speak."

"This realization, plus the fact that he has been caught for so many generations by stupid women, has made the post-war situation wary."

"After have had to pay in my relationship with men. And it is because I've treated men in a man's way, in a man's world."

CAN'T DECIDE WHO'LL DRIVE CAR—WIFE SHOOT'S HUSBAND

(From Harlan Enterprise.)

HARLAN, Dec. 30.—Walter Wheeler, 24, was shot and instantly killed by his wife, Mrs. Verna Wheeler at their home in Coxton Friday morning December 23.

According to the story of Alton Wheeler, a brother of the dead man, who was in an adjoining room when the fatal shot was fired, himself, Wheeler and his wife had all planned and were ready to go to Harlan in their car. Mrs. Wheeler objected to young Wheeler driving. Then Wheeler said, "Well just not go then." The car was left standing and the three returned into the house and Wheeler began changing clothes preparing to go to a local shooting match. His wife said she was going too and he objected some what, but soon agreed for her to accompany him. Then she remarked, "I can sweet-talk you into anything," and nodded for young Wheeler to leave the room. Wheeler is said to have made the remark that he didn't care for his wife and that if she didn't hush he'd "go see that other woman tonight anyway."

At about this time he was standing before the fire place. His wife infuriated, was on the other side of the room between a bed and a dresser, within easy reach of a savage 32 automatic, that always was kept in one of the dresser drawers. Young Wheeler in another room heard the shot and his brother's calls. Within a few minutes Wheeler expired.

Mrs. Wheeler was brought to Harlan immediately and placed in the hospital following a nervous breakdown. In the meantime she was kept under guard awaiting a preliminary hearing or removal to the county jail.

PIPPIN SISTERS HOLD ENVIABLE SUNDAY SCHOOL ATTENDANCE RECORD HERE

It is believed that the record for regular Sunday school attendance is held by Miss Winnie Pippin and Miss Audrey Pippin, who have attended every Sunday for 12 and 10 years respectively.

Not even the epidemic of influenza which raged here a few years ago making public gatherings prohibitive, was sufficient to mar the regular attendance of the two girls. At such times they met with the parson's family and held Sunday school services.

Though technically Miss Winnie has made the best record since she has not missed a Sunday for 12 years, her sister has missed only one Sunday in 13 years, this being 10 years ago when she was a small child. Her attendance record dates from that time, but for the single exception mentioned it would be three years longer.

These girls who have made such an enviable record, who "have fought" good faith and have kept the faith" are members of the M. E. church, south, of which Rev. W. K. McClure is pastor.

During their attendance in this church many leaders of the pastoral flock have come and gone. The following ministers have been their pastors during this period: Rev. C. K. Dickey, Rev. B. F. Chatham, Rev. C. A. Togne, Rev. W. S. Maxwell, Rev. W. V. Cropper, Rev. T. W. Watts.

Absence of presents doesn't make the heart grow any fonder.
